Product Information – Glutathione in Cordyceps:

Cordyceps Sinensis is considered one of the most valued Chinese medicinal herbs. It contains great amounts of important and active nutrients like: cordycepic acid, cordycepin, amino acid, Glutathione /glutamic acid, polysacharrides, vitamin B12 and more.

There has been numerous research about Glutathione, one of the most valuable components of Cordyceps which is also a powerful naturally occurring antioxidant in all human cells.

Glutathione is found in all cells in the body, including the bile, the epithelial lining fluid of the lungs, and also in the blood. The highest concentration of Glutathione is found in the liver, making it very important in the cleansing and elimination of free radicals. Accumulation of these dangerous free radicals can result in oxidative stress, which occurs when the generation of free radicals in the body exceeds the body's ability to neutralize and eliminate them. Metabolically, Glutathione has many functions. Glutathione plays a substantial role in the body's immune system. Its antioxidant property makes it vital to white blood cells (lymphocytes) as it allows them to reach their full potential during the oxygen-requiring activity of the body's immune response.

Glutathione is known to have multiple functions. It detoxifies many foreign compounds and abnormal cell producers, both organic and inorganic. It is essential for the immune system to exert its full potential and maintain control of the immune response. It plays a fundamental role in numerous metabolic and biochemical reactions such as DNA synthesis and repair, protein synthesis, prostaglandin synthesis, amino acid transport and enzyme activation. Thus, every system in the body can be affected by the state of the Glutathione system, especially the immune system, the nervous system, the gastrointestinal system and the lungs.

Glutathione is the regulator and regenerator of immune cells and it is the most valuable detoxifying agent in the body, detoxification of toxins and carcinogens, enhancement of the immune system, and protection from oxidation and enzyme activations.

Glutathione has strong antiviral properties. If there are higher levels of Glutathione in the tissues and serum, then the replication of most pathogens are stopped. Conversely, if the levels of Glutathione are low, then conditions become much more favourable for viruses.

The health benefits of the Glutathione component in Cordyceps is extremely important to the immune system and to the general well-being.
