DXN's Noni is called MORINZHI JUICE (Botanical name: Morinda Citrifolia)

The goodness of consuming Noni helps to support the Immune System; Digestion and Intestinal health; Inflammation and overall Well-Being. Antioxidants contained in Noni can assist in the maintenance of Healthy Skin, Hair and Scalp; and also help in the elimination of free radicals. The enzymatic reactions that occur with taking Noni juice on an empty stomach, is believed to set cellular repair into motion.

Dr. Ralph Heinicke first began to study the compounds in Noni in the 1970's at the University of Hawaii. There, he discovered a key phytonutrient found in Noni called xeronine, which he patented in 1981. He found that this ingredient, as well as proxeronine - which makes up the building blocks of xeronine - played a key role in Noni's ability to assist in the management of pain.

The body already makes some proxeronine, and subsequently, xeronine, but it tends to be in short supply relative to demands for it throughout the body. The primary function of xeronine in the body is to regulate the shape and rigidity of certain proteins and help manage a wide range of physiological responses. Normally, proxeronine is stored in the liver and is periodically released into the bloodstream for absorption by organs as needed. Human tissue cells contain receptor sites for the absorption of xeronine. Regarding pain relief, xeronine converts certain brain receptor proteins into active sites for the absorption of endorphins.

Studies have shown an analgesic (pain relief) effect in a 1990 study of 10,000 patients testing the efficacy of Noni for a wide range of health issues, pain reduction was registered by 88% of the studies participants.

While Noni has only minimal amounts of xeronine, it has enormous quantities of proxeronine, which is the precursor for xeronine that provides the raw materials for its production. Dr. Heinicke also found that Noni contains proxeroninase, an enzyme which plays a key role in the synthesis of xeronine and serotonin, a process which is enhanced even further when taken on an empty stomach.

Noni or Morinzhi - is most commonly consumed as a liquid. Also suitable to apply directly onto skin problems or burns to soothe and relieve. Could aid in the process of ending alkaloid addiction ie: nicotine (try 1 tablespoon of Morinzhi every waking hour for 3 days. Hold it in the mouth for a few minutes, swishing under the tongue, for quick absorption into the cells, then swallow). In the case of Quitting smoking by stopping the cravings cycle - one must stop the intake of nicotine while on this course of Morinzhi, as the body had been accepting nicotine instead of what it really needs: xeronine / proxeronine / proxeroninase.

Recommended for Everyone including Children.

MILTON MACZKOWIACK'S HEALTH PROFILE BY DENIA NEINDORF, (DAUGHTER).

I live in the Adelaide Hills, am in my mid seventies and had been suffering from Rheumatoid Arthritis for the past 38 years. When I was 37 years old, I had to give up work because of it, and the doctors then said that I would be in a wheel-chair by the age of 45 years. I had been on numerous medications since my first diagnosis, as well as surgery to my feet which involved the removal of the foot padding below my toes which had calcified and resulted in deformity, and made walking unbearably painful.

During this time I regularly attended the Rheumatology outpatients at the Queen Elizabeth Hospital Adelaide and was under the care of a team of Rheumatologists of which one was quite receptive of the Ganoderma programme as well as supplementary vitamins and minerals.

Numerous medications (sometimes between 60 and 70 a day) were prescribed and taken in the last 38 years. My condition continued to deteriorate, and then I was prescribed other drugs which I felt caused more damage and therefore asked to be taken off them losing approximately 10 kg within a 3 month period, in which time I was experiencing more pain than ever before. My major problem at this stage was pain management, and I remember being so distressed with pain that my daughter was on the phone crying to our local GP asking him to prescribe Morphine for the pain.

Despite having to increase the daily dosage of Morphine, we were unable to relieve the pain. It was a very emotional time for myself and the family, (especially my wife who broke down in tears many many times). At this stage, I was bed ridden and not able to lift a glass of water to my mouth. I had mouth ulcers, was very dehydrated, hallucinating and my hair had turned white. One night and I had to be rushed to the Hospital by ambulance, then transferred to the QE Hospital. At this stage I had a build up of fluid in both legs. After one week I was discharged and that was the turning point in my life. The doctors suggested that I still continue with those medications but I was so desperate that one agreed to allow my family's decision to take me off ALL medications and try a detox programme using natural herbal supplements. (The idea was to clear out the build-up of drugs and perhaps later go back to some of the medications). Fortunately, their research led us to Ganoderma and we decided to give it a try. I started on concentrated amounts of the Ganoderma and Spirulina, as well as the Morinzhi (enzyme) drink which alleviated my constipation problems. This programme commenced on the 19th February 2007. Within two months of commencing taking Ganoderma and Morinzhi, I noticed a marked improvement in my health. Now able to dress myself, walk freely, do some gardening and eventually able to drive once more. My improvement since then has been dramatic, I now play golf on a weekly basis as part of my exercise programme and since April 2007 am virtually PAIN FREE !! Although my medical team were reluctant, I was able to reduce my medications to a bare minimum and that is my current situation.

I now enjoy quality of life. My wife continues to be my carer because of the deformities that resulted from the deterioration of my condition and the use of medications over the years. From all the stress she has suffered from high blood pressure, she now takes Ganoderma and currently her blood pressure and cholesterol have reverted back to normal levels, and her brown pigmentation on her face and arms is clearing and my hair is now reverting back to dark Grey. Milton.

The following is by Milton's Daughter – Denia.

As a result of my father's improvements, my whole family is taking Ganoderma and I have noticed a marked improvement with my own children. My youngest son when 4 years old, his Kindy Teacher referred to Kids Sense at Unley who diagnosed his condition could be Autism or ADHT. He is now 5 years old and has been taking Ganoderma for 4 months. His attention span and level of concentration have improved 400% in my opinion. His special needs teacher has commented on his amazing progress, and he is now a normal healthy child achieving his milestones for his age according to expected class standards. I now feel he will have no problems with his future education which is what every parent would want. Because of the benefits my family and I are enjoying from the Ganoderma. We would love to help anyone that may require to speak to me personally. My father is also able to tell his story anytime.
