New Star Diamond

105009868 - Ms. Suzie Tunbridge (GORDON, NSW)

My health seeking journey with DXN: I joined DXN April 2007. It took me 4 years to reach the prestigious level of Star Diamond with the network marketing program provided by DXN. Obviously there is a way to achieve this faster but I did not know when I first joined that we could make this into a good business. It is not just for good health, anyone can achieve an income working this program if that is what they want.

Initially I was looking for a toothpaste that did not have all the nasties that are in the majority of the toothpastes on the market. My friend in Adelaide told me about the one she uses and that it also contained Ganoderma. That was the first I have heard of Ganoderma. Since then I have told and sold to hundreds of people, DXN's Ganozhi toothpaste. Many of them have also benefited from other products with Ganoderma and Cordyceps, which have both been used for thousands of years in China and Japan as herbal medicines.

Over the years, as well as my monthly bonuses, I have received the Cash bonus of $425 also called the Hand Phone Incentive. My next goal is to achieve the $2800 Cash bonus and the Travel Seminar Incentive where Star Diamonds earn points towards an annual trip to different parts of the world with all expenses paid. I am really looking forward to that.

Taking DXN products is a great way to stay healthy and help others attain good health, all the while making bonus commissions and enjoy the wonderful opportunity to mix with like-minded people.

Do join me for the next exciting chapter of my health-seeking journey.

Definition of Human Stress: A physical, chemical, or emotional factor that causes bodily or mental tension that may be a factor to diseases.

It has been proven over the years that excessive stress affects your immune system, reduces your body's ability to fight diseases and speeds up your aging process.

Excessive stress leads to facial wrinkles and premature or rapid graying of hair, as well as to impatience, irritability, impaired decision making, confusion and forgetfulness, high blood pressure and hypertension (leading to heart problems), to have abnormal cells, imbalanced hormones; respiratory and digestive problems as well as diabetes, weight gain or loss, colds and flu are more frequent, headaches, neck and back pains. Even though some stress is a normal part of life, it affects everyone in a different way.

Can stress be reduced? YES !! Good nutrition is very important to help reduce the effects of stress on the body. Nourish yourself with DXN Products, drink plenty of pure and alkaline water, eat more colourful and raw vegetables (particularly green), get lots of deep sleep, keep the mind positive and active and exercise at least 30 minutes a day, eat less packaged and processed foods. Have more FUN and LAUGH much MORE ! Life is wonderful – ENJOY IT.

CORDYCEPS Sinensis - SuperFood

Worldwide studies have shown that this unassuming fungus delivers even more potentially life-enhancing benefits than claimed. This is a superfood which is just beginning to make itself known in the western medical literature.

It is another valued Chinese medicinal herb. It is found naturally in the highlands of China, Tibet and Nepal. Cordyceps sinensis contains various nutrients and active ingredients, which include cordycepic acid, cordycepin, amino acids, glutamic acid, polysaccharides, vitamin B12 among others.

It has been long-treasured as an essential tonic to enhance blood circulation, and maintain a healthy kidney function and respiratory system. Normally used by sports people for extra stamina, aerobic enhancement, to overcome fatigue, create alertness and to increase energy levels. Particularly good for high altitude sports.

The best-known medicinal action of Cordyceps sinensis is the increase of physical stamina. Cordycepin is very effective against all sorts of bacteria that have developed resistance to other antibiotics. Cordyceps has been shown to improve the internal balance mechanism, thus making the utilisation of oxygen more efficient.

Numerous studies have demonstrated the benefits of Cordyceps sinensis on heart rhythm disturbances such as cardiac arrhythmias and chronic heart failure. Excellent studies have demonstrated the benefits of Cordyceps sinensis in helping to lower total cholesterol and triglycerides and to increase HDL ("good") cholesterol. Clinical studies involving male and female patients with decreased libido have shown significant improvements in symptoms. The most dramatic physical proof has come from a male fertility study that showed that a Cordyceps supplement greatly increased sperm count, decreased sperm malformations and improved sperm survival rate after eight weeks of use.

These properties and others may account for the overall physical enhancement, the added endurance, the libido-enhancing attributes and the anti-fatigue effects seen in humans using Cordyceps sinensis.

Technological advances by DXN Research and Development team has successfully led to the growth and production of DXN's Cordyceps sinensis. It is grown from pure and carefully selected species, which is organically cultivated under stringent quality control and testing - from cultivation to finished goods (there are many cheap Cordyceps on the market but only the Cordyceps sinensis has therapeutic benefits).
