Re: Revised product pricing

Dear valued Members,

Due to the rising cost of raw materials, operating outlets and other related expenses, we have revised the prices of some products to retain a reasonable product price margin within the market.

We have continually maintained our current pricing schedule since DXN International (Australia) Pty. Ltd. commenced operations in 2000, and following this revision, we will continue to try our best to uphold the revised prices for as long as possible.

Please be informed the revised products price will take effect on 1st June 2007. You may go to your member log in page to view the Revised Distributor Price For Affected Products. Any orders placed between now and 31st May will be honored at the current prices.

We wish to thank you for your valued custom and know that you will understand the necessity for this price revision.
